DEVICE NON DISCLOSURE AGREEMENT

We ask that you read and accept the following conditions:

You hereby certify that you will hold confidential all the information provided to you by Maxim, or Maxim's affiliates or subsidiary companies (hereinafter "Maxim"), with regards to the following:

DS5240 and/or DS5250 and/or DS5503 and/or MAXQ1103 and/or MAXQ1850 Secure Microcontroller

Confidential information shall mean all information and devices obtained by you from or disclosed to you by Maxim (or Maxim's affiliates or subsidiaries) which relates to past, present and future research, development and business activities and the results from such work, including, but not limited to chip performance evaluations and any/all correspondence and conversations resulting therefrom, regarding chip alterations and improvements, except such information as is previously known to you or is publicly disclosed without breach of an obligation to Maxim or Maxim's affiliates or subsidiary companies, either prior or subsequent to your receipt of such information. You shall hold all such confidential information in confidence and shall use such confidential information for evaluation and study only, except as may be authorized by Maxim in writing. You shall not disclose by publication or otherwise to any person any such confidential information. At any time upon request of Maxim, you shall return to Maxim all written or descriptive matter including, but not limited to, drawings, blueprints, descriptions or other papers or documents which contain any such confidential information of Maxim, together with all copies thereof and any samples, at Maxim's discretion. Only those people in your organization with a "need to know" will receive access to this confidential information, and they too shall hold all such information in confidence for Maxim as outlined above. You acknowledge that the Confidential Information may be controlled by the U.S. Department of Commerce Export Administration Regulations or other requirements of the U.S. Government regulating the export of the Confidential Information. You agree that you shall not knowingly export or reexport, directly or indirectly, to any country any of the Confidential Information (or any product, process or service resulting directly therefrom) without first having obtained all necessary approvals thereof. Nothing in this Device Non Disclosure Agreement shall be construed as an offer of sale.
